

Die Bremer Stadtmusikanten

Once upon a time there lived a donkey. He was old and weak to do his work, so the farmer sent him away to be a musician.

The trio carried on walking until they found a rooster. The rooster wanted to run away because he was scared, he was dinner. The rooster wanted to be a musician so he went with the trio.

The donkey met a dog. His master didn't want him any more because he was too old to hunt rabbits. The donkey asked the dog if he wanted to be a musician, he said yes.

They walked for miles until it got dark. So they then found a safe place to stay. They passed through the windows and saw lots of food with robbers. The animals had a plan.

The donkey met a cat. His master didn't want him any more because he didn't want to catch mice. The donkey asked the cat if he would join, he said yes.

The animals all made lots of noise and jumped into the house through the window. The robbers ran out scared. One robber went in and all the animals did bad things and the robbers never came back again.